THE ORDER OF

THE Laurel & Palm

•HIGHEST HONOR BESTOWED ON GRADUATING SENIORS•

Exemplary leadership and high achievement characterize those selected for the Order of the Laurel and the Palm, the highest honor accorded to undergraduates completing their programs of study. Recipients display significant leadership that touches multiple facets of university life and have made notable contributions that leave a lasting impact on the university community and/or the world at large through their commitment to service and value of the university's highest goals and ideals. Less than one percent of undergraduates earning their degrees are selected as members of the Order of the Laurel and the Palm.

The University and the Division of Student Affairs proudly congratulate these 14 gifted leaders and scholars for their vision and transformative leadership – the recipients of the Order of the Laurel and the Palm.

THE ORDER OF Troy

Recipients of The Order of Troy have distinguished themselves beyond their peers in at least one facet of university life and have made notable contributions to the university community as active leaders or critical contributors in service to peers, the university community or the world at large. These students have pursued academic excellence while devoting extensive time and energy in service outside the classroom.

This year, 97 students are bestowed the honor of the Order of Troy. The University and the Division of Student Affairs are proud to recognize each of these students for their outstanding leadership in the USC community.

THE ORDER OF Arête

Arête, taken from the Greek, means virtue or excellence in attaining one's utmost human potential. Members of the Order of Arête have distinguished themselves above their peers through campus or community leadership roles beyond those required for their programs of study, often making notable contributions to the university, academic discipline, community or world at large. In these leadership roles, members demonstrate significant depth and scope of responsibility, and they are recognized for upholding value and meaning over individual achievement. The award represents the highest honor accorded graduate students upon completion of their academic programs.

This year, 113 students are bestowed the honor of the Order of Arête. The University and the Division of Student Affairs are proud to recognize each of these students for their outstanding work within their individual programs and their dedicated service to the campus community.

The History of Student Recognition

The Order of the Laurel and the Order of the Palm awards originated at USC in 1960. The Order of the Laurel was presented to outstanding senior women; the Order of the Palm was presented to outstanding senior men. Several years later, the Orders of the Laurel and the Palm were combined and redefined as the highest honor bestowed on graduating seniors. Distinguished leadership in multiple facets of university life and external community service were key descriptors along with excellent scholarship. A cumulative grade point average of 3.25 was customary.

The Order of Troy award originated in 1977 to recognize students who were excellent scholars and leaders, who had attained a cumulative grade point average of 3.0 or higher. In 2005, the Order of Arête was established to recognize graduate students who have demonstrated significant depth and scope of responsibility in a campus or community leadership role.

Reflective of university growth, the formal recognition program has been expanded to honor a larger number of remarkable outstanding scholars and leaders deserving of recognition and formal expression of gratitude for their contributions to student life. In addition, the program also recognizes Academic Honors, Renaissance Scholars, Discovery Scholars, Global Scholars, and Competitive Fellowships.
